"MADE IN KINGSTON" EXPOSITION EXPERT HAS ARRIVED IN TOWN

And Plans For the Show That is Neither a Carnival Nor a Chautauqua Will Soon be Under Way With Local Men in Charge and Every Effort Made to Give an Exhibition That Will be Worthy of Repetition Each Year.

L. C. Dupee, the exhibition president of the General Organization Company, with which concern the Chamber of Commerce has contracted for an industrial survey of Kingston, is in town and the preliminary work of arranging for the industrial exhibition next month has been begun. As stated in The Freeman some time ago, the exhibition will be held under tents on the Kingston Fair Grounds and will be in the nature of a county fair without freaks, barkers or midway. Goods made and sold in Kingston will be the big feature, but local community organizations, such as the Red Cross, Child Welfare, Farm Bureau and Home Bureau will be given space for exhibits and demonstrations.

While some outside talent will be called in to aid in the entertainment features, most of the program will be by home people and home organizations. From the rental of booths and the admission fees it is hoped to derive enough revenue to pay the cost of the exhibition and of this industrial survey of the city, that is to be made.

With Mr. Dupee to show them how, local committees will have charge of the exhibition and it is hoped that with the experience thus gained it will be possible to put on an annual exposition in Kingston hereafter.

The exhibition will open about the middle of October and will continue for about 10 days. A similar show in Rome, N. Y., a city about the size of Kingston and not nearly so favorably located or so enterprising, drew an attendance of 13,000 and produced receipts of $8,000. The exposition will not be a carnival or a circus; neither will it be a Chautauqua or a camp meeting. It will be more dignified and educational than a carnival, more lively than a Chautauqua and as respectable as prayer meeting. It will strike a happy medium through which visitors will be entertained without vulgarity and enlightened without being bored. Furthermore, it is not a money-grabbing proposition.

TOM ROSE'S CONDITION SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Thomas E. Rose of Converse street is still living at the Kingston City Hospital, and it was stated this morning that his condition seems to be somewhat improved. Rose after shooting and killing Mame Spaulding, with whom he lived, turned the gun on himself and the bullet is still lodged in his brain opposite the point of entry. That Rose should continue to live with a bullet in his brains hows that he is possessed of a remarkable constitution. He is conscious, recognizes all who approach his bedside, and converses with them.

DAIL EIREANN IS CONVENED

Comparatively Little Disorder—DeValera Not Present—One Of His Rebellious Associates Is Ejected—Prof. Hayes Speaker.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, Sept. 9.—Eamonn de Valera, commander-in-chief of the Irish Republican Irregulars, failed to put in appearance today when the new Dail Eireann (Free State parliament) convened for its first session. Prof. Hayes was elected speaker, succeeding Prof. MacNeill.

William T. Cosgrave, home secretary and acting secretary for foreign affairs, was elected president of the Dail Eireann, succeeding the late Arthur Griffith. Cosgrave had no opposition.

Although a number of members who are in sympathy with De Valera's cause consulted together and decided to attend the sessions, only Laurence Ginnell showed up at the first meeting. He created a scene when he refused to sign the membership roll.

"I charge that this Dail Eireann is the instrument of the British government," shouted Ginnell. He was ruled out of order, but continued his speech.

"I challenge the authority of this body," cried Ginnell.

Finally the recalcitrant member was forcibly ejected.

Dublin, Sept. 9.—The new Dail Eireann (Irish Free State parliament,) convened today for its first session under dramatic circumstances. Leinster Hall was under heavy guard of troops to prevent attacks by the Irregulars.

On the eve of the meeting, Free State troops began a series of raids, rounding up large numbers of guerrilas and capturing quantities of munitions.

Irregulars attempted an ambush attack against the guards of the Cliffden wireless station, but were repulsed.

The Irish censorship has been lifted.

The gathering of the Dail, at a time when the Free State army is engaged in war against the Irregulars, who suport a republic, aroused national interest. Large crowds were gathered in the streets flanking Leinster Hall long before the hour for the meeting.

Many of the members who were among the early arrivals, were not escorted. Some were recognized and cheered. The chief interest centered upon the possibility of Eamonn de Valera, commander-in-chief of the Irregulars, coming to Dublin for the meeting. There were numerous false reports that De Valera had arrived or was seen on his way to the hall.

Mary MacSwiney, Laurence Ginnell, Count Plunkett took their seats despite their opposition to the Anglo-Irish treaty. Many of the members who are in sympathy with the republican Irregulars, held a meeting and were on the point of deciding not to attend when Miss MacSwiney—a sister of the late lord mayor of Cork—delivered a speech and persuaded them to do so.

Miss MacSwiney said she thought it was the duty of Republicans to keep up their fight in the legislative halls as well as upon the fields of battle.

Reorganization of the cabinet will be undertaken by the Dail next week.

The Dail's peace policy is being worked out and will be announced some time next week, according to present plans. It provides amnesty for all the Irregulars who lay down their arms and promise to support the Free State constitution. Heavy penalties will be imposed upon those who continue under arms against the state.

"The folks sure do read The Freeman" says Mr. Safford. Safford & Scudder have had a steady call for their new Kingston folder since the notice in The Freeman last Saturday, and requests are coming from out of town readers who saw the notice; one from Norwalk, Conn., enclosing a dollar bill was received Friday; the money, of course, was returned as the folder is for free distribution and intended as a help in spreading the fame of Kingston, and has made its ways into seventeen states so far, mostly to customers of Safford & Scudder, who believe in "Kingston, U. 155,000 MINERS BEGIN DIGGING ANTHRACITE COAL ON MONDAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Sept. 9.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, announced today that production of anthracite coal would be resumed Monday. This will put about 155,000 hard coal miners to work after strike idleness of more than five months.

The tri-district convention was in session today and it was expected tha the PepperReed peace plan for ending the anthracite strike would be ratified before night. Mr. Lewis, who favors the plan, was confident that it would get the approval of the convention.

The text of the plan follows:

"This agreement, made this second day of September, 1922, between Districts 1, 7 and 9, United Mine Workers of America, parties of the first part, and the anthracite operators, parties of the second part, covering wages and conditions of employment in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania, witnesseth.

"1—The contracts and working conditions which are operative on March 31, 1922, are hereby extended to and including August 31, 1923.

"2—Districts 1, 7 and 9, United Mine Workers of America, will forthwith take the necessary steps to enable all employes to return to work to the end that the production of anthracite coal may be resumed.

"3—The parties unite in a recommendation to congress that legislation be forthwith enacted creating a separate anthracite coal commission with authority to investigate and report promptly on every phase of the industry and the parties hereby ask the president to request the enactment by congress of the recommended legislation.

"4—The continuance of production after August 31, 1923, shall be upon such terms as 'the parties may agree upon in the light of the report of the commission.'"

Then cometh the dotted lines.

SCHOOLS HAVE 166 TONS OF COAL

The city schools are not in such bad condition in regard to coal and at present there is plenty of coal on hand in each school to start up fires when necessary. According to Trustee Herbert of the supplies committee of the board of education there are at present 50 tons of soft coal at the high school and a car load will be due shortly. This grade of coal has been used very successfully at the high school for some time.

In his report of the coal situation submitted to the board of education Friday evening at its regular meeting he reported the following amounts of coal at the various schools left over from last year:

No. 1, 2 tons.
No. 2, 20 tons.
No. 3, 5 tons.
No. 4, 4 tons.
No. 5, 20 tons.
No. 6, 25 tons.
No. 7, 5 tons.
No. 8, 35 tons.

When cold weather sets in and it becomes necessary to start fires if no additional coal has been received it will be possible to distribute this supply which is on hand so as to keep all schools in operation until additional coal can be secured.

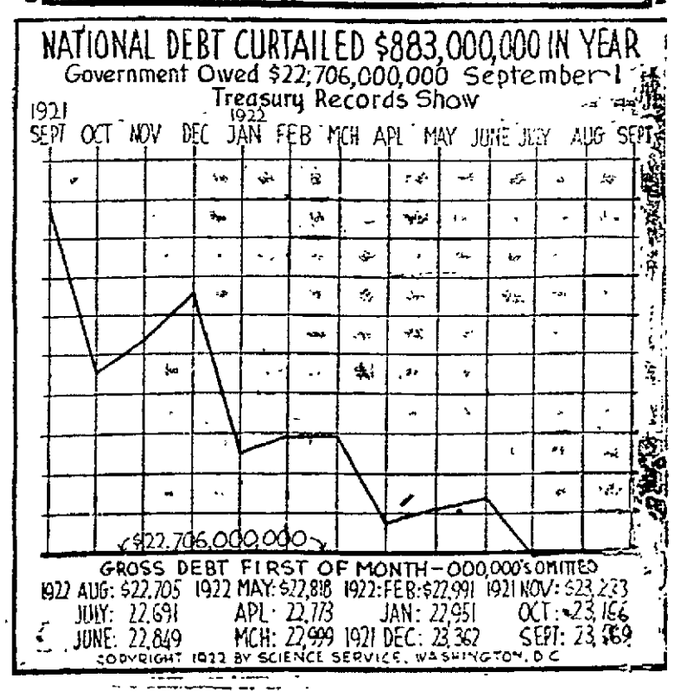
BUSINESS DAY by DAY as the Government sees it

PREPARED BY RALPH F. COUCH



MRS. HARDING HAD FAIRLY GOOD NIGHT

But She Still Hovers Between Life and Death With President at Her Bedside and White House Gates Are Closed for First Time Since March, 1921.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 9—Mrs. Warren G. Harding is hovering between life and death at the White House today.

Her condition was described by the attending physicians early this morning as "extremely critical" and fears were privately expressed that she may not recover.

An immediate operation may be resort d to. Dr. Charles Mayo is speeding to Washington from Rochester, Minn., but probably will not reach the White House before tomorrow morning. An operation may become necessary before that time it was said.

At 10:45 o'clock, Secretary Christian informed newspaper correspondents that Mrs. Harding's condition was "still critical" and that her temperature was rising.

The president remained at Mrs. Harding's bedside throughout the night, retiring for a few hours' rest only after dawn broke this morning. Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and Comptroller of the Currency D. R. Crissinger, of Marion, also were at the White House until very late.

Three physicians remained at the executive mansion throughout the night—Dr John Finney of Johns Hopkins, Baltimore; Dr Charles E. Sawyer, Mrs Harding's personal physician, and his son, Dr. Carl E. Sawyer of Marion. They fought an all-night battle to save the life of their patient. Dr. George T Harding, brother of the president, has been summoned from Columbus, and will arrive this morning.

The rapid development of her illness, which dates back a week, was described by attending physicians today as hydronephrosis in an acute form. For ten years Mrs. Harding has been a sufferer from Chronic kidney trouble. This old trouble was aggravated a few days ago by a severe cold. She has also been under considerable strain, according to her friends, because of worry over the industrial situation in which she has taken a deep and constant interest.

Early this morning, it was learned from physicians that the patient was being eased by continuous use of hot applications, which induced perspiration.

Attorney General Daugherty, a close personal friend of the Hardings for years, returned to the White House at 7 a. m. today. After a visit to the sickroom, he said:

"Mrs. Harding spent a restful night. I think she has a chance of recovery."

It was understood that opiates were being administered this morning. The attending physicians described Mrs. Harding's spirit as "Indomitable."

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, it was officially announced at the White House that Mrs. Harding had a "fairly good night" and that her condition was "as favorable as could be expected."

At the same hour, the gates of the White House were ordered closed to visitors—for the first time since Mrs Harding entered the White House in March 1921. She expressly ordered them opened at that time.

The official White House statement follows:

"Mrs. Harding had a fairly good night. The complications of yesterday are less threatening this morning On the whole her condition is as favorable as can be expected at this time."

President Harding cancelled all engagements today and remained with Mrs. Harding at the White House.

The executive mansion was awake throughout the night. Cabinet officers, senators and others prominent in public life of the capital called until midnight to express their concern and offer their services. Secret service operatives and newspaper correspondents maintained an all-night vigil.

Telegrams and messages of sympathy and prayer for recovery poured into the White House last night and this morning in a never-ending stream. They came from all parts of the country and from many persons in many walks of life.

Mrs. Harding's condition was described this morning by the attending physicians as such that a quick turn might come at any moment. A definite turn was expected within 24 hours in any event. The general health of Mrs. Harding has not been good for some time. In 1913, following a surgical operation, she developed hydronephrosis and was seriously ill. There followed recurrences of these attacks at varying periods. In 1916 there was a particularly acute one, and again just before coming to the White House, she was subjected to a severe attack.

Since coming to Washington, Mrs. Harding has taken an ever increasing activity in social and welfare work in the capital. She has been a frequent visitor at the city's hospitals, particularly those caring for war veterans.

The opening of the White House gates to the public, after their being closed so long during the Wilson administration, resulted in a never-ending flow of visitors through the executive grounds and mansion. It was a common sight to see the mistress of the White House stroll democratically out into the grounds and shake hands with casual tourists.

Mrs. Harding has for years accompanied the president upon his speech-making and campaigning trips, often standing in line for several hours, shaking hands. It was noticed that after these efforts she generally was forced to retire for a time, because of the strain of being on her feet and receiving people for so long a period.

SIXTY ROADS AGREE TO WILLARD'S PLAN TO END RAILROAD STRIKE

Comprise 85,000 Miles of Track—Changes in Seniority Clause Would Put All Men, Old and New, at Work—Rail Securities Owners Prime Movers For Peace—Now Up to Union Meeting Monday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Text of the rail strike peace agreement, negotiated by B. M. Jewell and rail executives as the "separate peace" plan, was today in the hands of the shopcrafts chiefs for action.

The plan, it is expected, will be adopted by railroads aggregating more than 85,000 miles of track, as a start off, while no obstacle to union acceptance of the plan is seen.

While no definite decision is expected until the members of the union policy committee of ninety meet here Monday, an informal conference of the shopmen's leaders today was expected to have an important bearing on the ultimate action.

Yesterday representatives of sixty roads, controlling one fourth of the nation's mileage, in the secret meeting here, adopted the settlement plan.

Formal notice of the acceptance has been given B. M. Jewell and the ending of the strike on these railroads at least, now rests almost entirely with the shopcrafts policy committee. If the policy committee grants Jewell authority to negotiate separate settlements, the strike will be settled speedily on these roads and transportation tie-ups on 85,000 miles of track removed.

The roads agreeing to the plan included nearly all of the 62 roads which originally balked at the die-hard attitude taken at the recent New York conference.

The roads which yesterday served notice they would not take part in the peace plans were:

Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; Union Pacific; Santa Fe; Northern Pacific; Illinois Central; Chicago & Alton; Chicago & Eastern Illinois

The powerful Santa Fe and Union Pacific organization have joined with the Pennsylvania and other lines in organizing new "unions" or employes' organizations. The Chicago & Alton is in the hands of a federal receiver and does not have to worry about the strike. The other lines claim to have obtained sufficient men to run their shops and keep transportation normal. The Rock Island and Nickel Plate lines have deferred action for the present but it is believed the roads will fall in line and make separate agreements if the leaders in the movement sign up.

At yesterday secret meeting of the executives here, the chief changes in the settlement plans discussed were in the seniority and settlement commission sections. The commission to settle all disputes will be made up of five rail executives and five shopcrafts officials. The New York plan called for five men from the big four brotherhoods as the union representatives. The seniority change puts all men—old and new—at work, while the New York plan simply stipulated that the strikers should receive their seniority privileges regardless of the effect on the new men.

It was stated today that S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line, and Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway, may reach here tomorrow or today to join Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, in lining up more roads.

Mr. Warfield, who heads an association of owners of $13,000,000,000 in railroad securities, was one of the prime movers in the peace negotiations.

The Angora government is drawing up both peace and armistice terms, chief of which is evacuation of all of Anatolia and Thrace, which would practically restore the old Turkish empire. It is understood that France will support the Turkish demands.

GUARD AGAINST STONE BRUISES

This Form of Injury to Tires Is One of Most Common and Expensive to Owner.

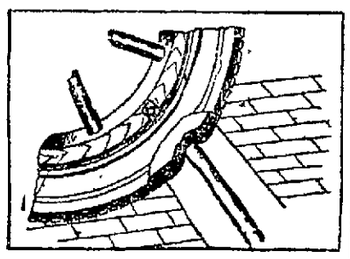
BREAK IN FABRIC IS INSIDE

Inexperienced Driver Who Gets Hard Bump Against Curb or Any Other Object Usually Looks for Injury on the Outside.

A "stone bruise" is the term used to describe an injury to a tire caused by striking some object with sufficient force to cause the tire fabric to be broken. It need not be a stone that causes the damage.

The break in the fabric may be in only one ply or it may be in all of them; but in any case it is always the inside ply that breaks first.

An inexperienced driver whose tire gets a heavy blow from a stone or a curb usually looks over the outside of the tire to see if any damage has been done. But the old driver knows that if harm has been done the place to look for it is in the inside and that any break in the fabric will be registered on the inside ply first.



Bump Against Curb Will Cause "Stone Bruise."

Inside Ply Shorter.

Normally the inside ply is shorter than the rest and each ply is shorter than any of the others which are located outside of it. This is because it is on the inside of the curvature of the tire. Now if the tire is suddenly compressed at some point to a considerable extent, such as shown in the illustration, the relative position of the plies is reversed; that is, the ouside ply becomes, at this particular point, the inside ply as regards the curvature and the inside ply becomes the outside ply as regards curvature.

If it should happen, as it often does, that only one or two inner plies are broken, there will not be any signs of the injury on the outside until a considerable time afterward. This is because the other plies still unbroken will continue to hold against the air pressure even though they will be under excessive strain. But continued flexing will eventually break them also, and the result may be a blowout, which may occur at any time, even on a perfectly smooth pavement.

Other Effects.

Another effect of a break in one or two inner plies may be that from continued bending the broken edges of the fabric rub a hole in the inner tube at that point. Sometimes the break is so pronounced, especially in a fabric tire, that the air pressure forces the inner tube into the break, and as this is continually closing and opening, as the tire rolls, the action is like a pair of pinchers and cuts the tube.

If the tube is chafed through or cut after a bruise, such as described, the air will pass directly through the carcass and force the rubber side covering, and sometimes the tread, loose from the fabric. When this happens the user generally terms it a blowout, and as a matter of fact it is; but, contrary to the opinion often held, it is seldom the result of a defect in manufacture. It can generally be traced to an injury sustained some time prior to the final breaking down of the tire.

TIRES HELP MAKE GOOD CAR

Appearance of Machine Is Often Marred By Appearance and Condition of Tires.

Tires tell mileage history more convincingly even than speedometers. The appearance of a car is frequently made or marred by condition of the tires. A new set of tires and a little cleaning up of the car, say old tire men, will accomplish the same results for the old car that a shave, a hair cut and a shine will do for the man with an old suit of clothes.

YOU AUTO KNOW

That gasoline, oil and grease are the natural enemies of rubber and that they will rapidly lead to decay and disintegration of tires, particularly if the latter have been driven for a considerable distance and are nicked or cut. Gasoline especially is injurious to tires because it is a solvent of gum rubber, but, because of the fact that it evaporates rapidly, it does not present such a menace as oil and grease.

Permitting a car to stand in a garage in a pool of oil will, in a comparatively short time, lead to a decay of the rubber and a marked shortening of the life of the tire itself. Even the pools of oil and grease which are to be noted on streets where automobiles are usually parked are dangerous for this reason—as well as for the fact that they provide extremely treacherous footing and may lead to a serious skid. So injurious are all kinds of oil to the fabric of which tires are made that one manufacturer advises motorists who are forced to go over freshly oiled roads to stop as soon as they have passed the oiled section and clean the surface of their tires with gasoline, taking care to wipe the cleansing agent off with a dry rag.

YOU AUTO KNOW

That failure to shift gears on a long hill is one of the signs of the amateur driver or of the man who prefers to try to "show off" the power of his machine at the risk of serious damage to the engine or, at best, of stalling in the middle of the incline. First and second (low and intermediate) gears are placed on cars for emergencies of this kind and are designed to assist the engine in pulling a load to which it is not accustomed. The driver who does not make use of them is, therefore, placing an undue strain on his car and should not be surprised if something gives way under it.

The best method to use in the case of a long steep incline is to approach, if possible, at a fair rate of speed, so that the car will gain as much initial impetus as possible. Then, when the machine begins to lose speed but before it has slowed down too much, shift to second and, if necessary, to first. Also, at the first sound of a "knock" retard the spark, for this will slow down the engine and give it more power, thus making it unnecessary to shift gears on hills which the driver knows by experience his car can make without laboring.

HEADLIGHT FOR AUTOMOBILE

Operated by Steering Mechanism and Always Points in Direction Car Is Speeding.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing an automobile headlight control, the invention of W. Muller of Honolulu, Hawaii, says: The invention relates to headlights operated by the steering mechanism so that the light will always point in the direction in which the car is moving. An object is to provide means operable from the steering wheel for turning the headlights so that the rays will be directed in a straight path forward of the course of travel of the machine. The device is readily applicable to any ordinary construction of automobile.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

Valve clicks and slaps are the most common engine noises.

The neglect in tightening bolts or filling grease cups often leads to trouble and frequently a breakdown.

One cause of lack of power in an engine while pulling against a load is a partly clogged gasoline line from tank to carburetor, not permitting enough fuel to enter the carburetor and pass on to engine.

One of the newest ideas regarding safety on the highways, especially at night, is the suggestion that pedestrians on the left-hand side of the road keep out of the range or path of an automobile approaching from the rear.

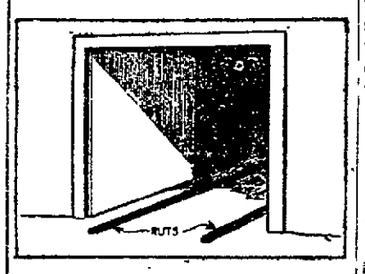
RUTS TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Depressions Are of Much Help to Inexperienced Drivers in Getting Car Into Garage.

Inexperienced automobilists are not always able to drive a car into the garage as straight as they would like to.

There is a remedy for this. In the making of a garage, two ruts should be put in the floor. These will always keep the car straight, regardless of the experience of the driver.—G. Bender, in Popular Science Monthly.



These Ruts Will Prevent the Automobile From Being Damaged by Contact With the Door-Frame.

FIX INDICATOR FOR BACKING

Small Notch Cut on Under Side of Steering Wheel Will Be of Great Assistance.

A small notch cut on the under side of the steering wheel rim, in a position nearest the driver, will greatly aid when backing the car in a straight and narrow direction. Before making the notch simply set the wheels in a straight position. When backing, if the mark be to one side or to the other, it naturally shows that the wheels are not straight.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

A thorough motorist should be a good judge of distance and speed.

More accidents result from faulty adjustment or application of brakes than from any other cause.

Engine knocks are classified under four heads—spark, overheating, carbon and loose or worn parts.

Important Disclosure.

"John," said his young wife, "have you any secrets you keep from me?"

"Why, no," he replied, wondering what in the world was coming.

"Well, then, I am determined I will have none from you."

"You have secrets, then?"

"Only one, and I am resolved to make a clean breast of it. I'm afraid it will disturb you, John."

"Go, on," he said hoarsely.

"For several weeks I have had a secret, John—a secret longing for a new dress, with hat to match."

Why is it that a married woman always waits until her husband is in bed before she asks him if he locked the back door?

A near-sighted man lost his hat in a strong wind. He gave chase but every time he thought he was catching up with it, it whisked from under his hand. A woman screamed from a nearby farmhouse.

"What are you doing there?"

He mildly replied that he was trying to retrieve his hat.

"Your hat?" exclaimed the woman. "There it is over there under that stone wall; that's our little black hen you've been chasing."

STATE POWER PLANT STARTED

A state-owned and state-operated hydro-electric power station will be at work within the next six months at Crescent, N. Y., on the state barge canal. Ground has already been broken for this power house, which is to utilize surplus water from the canal to produce electrical energy.

The energy, after being generated, will be used in part by the state to operate a repair shop and dry dock for canal boats. The surplus will be sold at the bus bar to outside consumers, either power companies or municipalities.

The General Electric Company has been given the contract to build and install two waterwheel-driven generators rated at 2800 kilowatts, 90 revolutions per minute and 2300 volts each. Each generator is to be driven by a waterwheel having a capacity of 4000 horsepower. Auxiliary station equipment will also be furnished.

Ultimately the proposed station will be equipped with four generators, and it is understood that a similar station is to be built at Visscher Ferry, also on the canal.

This is the first step by New York state to develop electrical power from surplus waters of the canal. Governor Miller recommended this procedure, advising the legislature that he had been informed the two sites could develop a maximum of 16,000 horsepower. He held that the development should be undertaken by the state so that the canal might always be used primarily for navigation, making the generating of electric power subordinate to this.

CIRCUS TO SHOW IN KINGSTON TUESDAY.

The big circus will appear in Kingston, Tuesday, September 12, on the Washington avenue and North Front street circus ground, for one day only and give an afternoon and evening performance, and it is expected will duplicate the big business of former years, when the tent was taxed to capacity. This year the show presents an entirely new outfit as regards tents and performance, with added seating capacity, furnishing accommodation for 5,000 patrons. Its street parade has been doubled in size, its circus performance will present an unusually attractive array of all foreign acts, and the menagerie, always adequate, this season displays 14 dens of jungle beasts. Every lover of a horse will revel in the display of thoroughbreds which fill the show's four stables, and some of the greatest riders in the world are scheduled to appear in the three rings at every performance.

The name of Main has been a household word in the east for the past 43 years, whenever the thoughts flew circusward. Organized in 1879, first as a wagon show, it has been continuously before the public ever since. Soon after its first venture on the rails it was in less than five minutes reduced to a pile of wreckage when the long train went over an embankment en route to Tyrone, Pa., to be exact, on the morning of May, 30, 1893. More than 100 horses were killed, all the animals escaped and were subsequently shot and seven employes are now sleeping in the cemetery in that city.

The Pennsylvania Railroad restored the show and in less than two weeks it was again on the road. A few years ago Walter L. Main increased it in size till it now requires 35 double length cars to transport all of the paraphernalia and this season has an added attraction in the twin baby elephants and Royal Carrie, the imported shimmy dancing elephant, two most wonderful elephant acts ever exhibited in the United States.

So that every one may be in time to witness the great street parade this feature will not appear till noon on the day of exhibition.

AMUSEMENT PARK PROJECT STARTED IN POUGHKEEPSIE

Success Of Kingston Fair Grounds Sets Example.

Under the direction of a Poughkeepsie lawyer a stock company has been formed to sell stock in a proposed park within the city limits of Poughkeepsie, and if things go as they are expected to a Poughkeepsie Amusement Park Company will be formed. The grounds purchased and work started to make the park and local professional baseball a success and a paying proposition. A meeting is to be called for all those interested and at this time, The Poughkeepsie Eagle-News states, Judge Harry E. Schirick will be the principal speaker at this meeting, using as a practical example the Colonial Ball Park, the Kingston Fair Grounds, which has proved to be a great advantage to the city.

Behind this project are Lou Gerstein, present booking agent for the Parker Axle Regulars Baseball team and Tim Jordan, captain of the Regulars. An All Star basketball team either to represent Poughkeepsie in the New York State or Interstate League is also proposed.

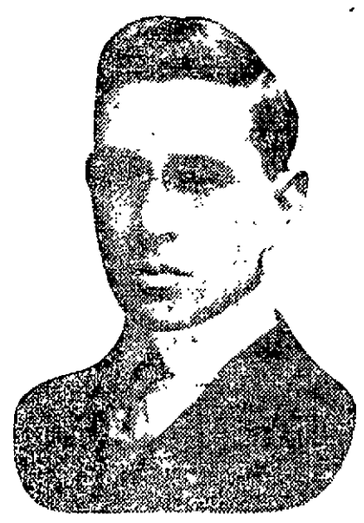
Health turns the Clock Backward

Neuritis Victim Hardly Knows Danger

The neuritis victim hardly knows the danger of this disease. Usually the pain is so persistent day and night that any measure of relief is welcome and no thought of future danger is possible.

Neuritis, like neuralgia, may be caused by a local displacement of spinal vertebra, and thus affect only a part of the body. If nerves are affected in a number of places, at the same time, it is what is called multiple neuritis and is caused by pressure on the spinal cord at the base of the brain.

The danger of neuritis if not quickly checked is that the heat in the nerve finally atrophies or destroys the nerve. This degeneration of the nerve tissue, if the neuritis for instance affects the arm, amounts to a loss of power in that arm. Neuritis should be checked at once. Its very nature points clearly to the need of chiropractic spinal adjustments.



NEURITIS IS GONE

"For months I suffered with neuritis of the neck, shoulder and arms. After three months of osteopathy during which I got ninety-seven treatments, I decided to try chiropractic. In two weeks the pain had gone, and I have had other chiropractic adjustments since but no return of the neuritis."—Lillian Harne, Chiropractic Research Bureau. Sworn Statement No. 1293L.

WHAT BOOTLEGGERS FAVOR.

Before the Eighteenth Amendment, which proclaimed prohibition, could be put in effect by any department of the government, it became necessary to pass an enforcement act, because the amendment in itself would be incapable of enforcement just as the fifty million dollar amendment to the State constitution a few years ago could not of itself produce the fifty million dollars without an enabling act which provided how the fifty millions should be raised. Hence, the Volstead act was proposed as a means of enforcing prohibition.

Up to that time, the smallest percentage of alcohol in any beverage on which Congress had legislated had been war-time beer, whose percentage of alcohol was fixed at 2.75 per cent, which was about the percentage commercial beer had contained for some years previous. According to testimony before Congress, the smallest possible percentage of alcohol any beverage could contain in order to be called a fermented beverage was one-half of one per cent. In other words, one-half of one per cent alcohol was the smallest percentage a beverage could contain to prevent it from spoiling. In the case of cider, anything less than one-half of one per cent alcohol would turn immediately into vinegar.

The Volstead act prohibited for beverage purposes anything containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol. The ordinary "near beer" of pre-Volstead days always had been recommended as a temperance drink, but it contained considerably in excess of one-half of one per cent alcohol. Light wines which hundreds of families had made for household use from time immemorial contained a larger percentage. Heavier wines and what were commonly called "spirits" contained a still larger percentage, according to kind. All those suddenly were proclaimed illegal.

Then, as now, there were many men and women who could not see the justice of the terms of the Volstead act. Eminent men and women in every section denounced the Volstead act, and they are still denouncing many of its provisions as illogical, unreasonable, impossible. The statement sometimes heard that the Volstead act would result in a better condition of public treasuries has not been borne out in any place. In our own city this week the common council has had to provide for borrowing $26,000 to make up the deficit caused by the loss of estimated excise revenue several years ago. Other communities have felt the loss. State legislation has been needed to meet the emergency created by the Volstead act. Kingston taxpayers will pay for this loss the next time they pay taxes.

The Volstead act may make stringent declarations but it cannot change and it has not changed human nature. It could and did create a vast army of men engaged to suppress all alcoholic beverages, whose salaries are paid out of a treasury not supplied as formerly from excise revenues but by taxation of the people. So intimately associated with the daily life and habits of the American people had become the use of light beers and light wines that the sudden check imposed on them by the Volstead act found many in the resentful mood which prompted them to defy the law in their homes, and prompted many others to seek stronger spirits to which they were strangers.

This condition naturally led to a demand for illicit spirits and furnished the opportunity for thousands of men to seek sudden wealth. Not only was the price of spirits affected by the law of supply and demand but men who assumed the danger of disobeying such a drastic law as the Volstead act demanded they should be well paid for it. A man's wealth or poverty has not affected his intentions in meeting the demands of the bootlegger. The bootlegger's price has been paid, and the prospect of big profits naturally has drawn into the business men who otherwise would respect law, with most amazing and demoralizing results.

In consequence of the high premium put on spirits which naturally took the place of very light beers and wines which were of greater bulk, bootlegging has flourished. It has corrupted men in private and public life. Trading in spirits is the most lucrative business industry in operation. The more stringent the Volstead act becomes, the greater becomes its defiance through resentment on the one hand and the promise of greater profits on the other.

Therefore the bootlegger favors the Volstead act which provides the means of practicing extortion on the public. The more stringent the declarations of the Volstead act, the greater becomes the demand for the bootlegger because a law to be enforced must have public sentiment behind it; to have public sentiment, it must be a reasonable law, not infringing on what people since the dawn of creation have regarded as inalienable rights. It is the inherited determination to fight for inherited rights that has advanced civilization.

With greater opportunities created by the Volstead act, the bootlegging business becomes more attractive to men seeking "easy money," a characteristic which cannot be regulated by any law because that characteristic is a law of nature itself. Easy money becomes easier by adulterating the illegal product which produces the revenue, and the result is everywhere apparent.

These facts cannot be denied. These conditions are the direct result of the Volstead act. They are apparent in every town of Ulster county and in Kingston city. Everybody sees them and knows their cause. Men never were confronted with conditions like these until the Volstead act became a law.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. What kind of song has the Baltimore oriole?

2. How can I protect my horses from having their hoofs nibbled by rats in the stable?

3. Occasionally I get a sealed package of cereal that is webby inside, and has white worms in it. How is it possible for them to get into the sealed box?

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Why aren't more sheep raised in farming country?

Largely because they are so frequently killed by vagrant dogs. One unexpected benefit of a mounted state constabulary, such as has been tried in half a dozen states, has been releasing the countryside of these vagrants, and farmers have been able to experiment with flocks. Sheep have the double value on a farm of their wool and mutton; and of their constant work as weed destroyers, eating far more varieties of weeds than other farm animals do.

2. Do conifers or evergreens have seed every year?

They vary. The white pine averages a seed crop only about once in five years. All the pines require two years to mature their fruit, blossoming in spring, but not developing the seed completely until the end of the second summer. The Norway spruce, on the contrary, ripens its cones the first year and is a prolific seeder.

3. How can you tell the difference between a male and female black duck?

Usually you can't, as the plumage of the sexes is practically alike—dusky brown, with a rusty brown edge to the feathers and under parts lighter. The throat and sides of head are streaked blackish on grayish-buff, and on top of head, with streak through eye, dark brown. The rump is dark brown, and in some specimens shows greenish gloss. Old drakes may be known by darker red to the feet, deeper yellow bills, throat streaks better defined, and general body larger.

INCORPORATIONS REFLECT INCREASE IN BUSINESS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 9.—(Special)—Predictions of increased business activity are being borne out these days through substantial gains in the number of companies which are incorporating and embarking in business in comparison to a year ago. This statement shows a total of 12,081 companies with a capitalization of $439,016,610, as having been incorporated up to September first. In the same period a year ago, 10,979 companies with an aggregate capitalization of $469,145,455, were incorporated.

ANOTHER TEACHER FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Because of Increased Registration—McBride's Bill Comes Under Ban of City Ordinance—New Boiler For School 3—3,735 Pupils Registered—Part Time and Night Schools.

Prof. Lewis of the high school appeared before the regular meeting of the board of education Friday evening and asked that an additional teacher be employed at the high school. When school opened this year there were 98 more students registered at the high school than last year and these have been distributed among the various teachers so that at present the teachers have larger classes and are teaching every period but one, while in past years each teacher had two vacant periods when they did not teach.

Prof. Lewis asked that a teacher be added either to the mathematics or science departments. If an additional teacher is secured for mathematics one of the present teachers will be assigned to the science department. However if a science teacher is secured he will be assigned to that department and the present mathematics department will be unchanged. In the chemistry and physics department there are 71 more students registered than last year making it necessary to give Mr. Dunbar additional help. On motion of Trustee Gill the teachers' committee was authorized to employ another teacher. All of the members present voted in favor of the motion except Mr. Van Wagenen who asked to be excused, as he had not been shown the necessity of employing additional help.

The finance committee reported the payroll for August amounting to $1,840 and bills amounting to $4,023.51 which were ordered paid. In presenting the various bills for supplies, etc., a bill for $11.01 for supplies delivered by William McBride was stricken from the list on the grounds that it could not be audited by the committee or the board as Mr. McBride was an official of the city and therefore could not sell supplies to the city. With this bill stricken from the list the bills were audited and ordered paid.

Trustee Van Wagonen, of the building committee, reported that an inspection had been made of the boiler at School No. 3 and that the inspectors had reported the boiler in bad shape, and recommended that a new boiler be installed. Mr. Van Wagonen said that the committee had later inspected the boiler along with an expert and had found that to repair the boiler would cost one-half the amount of a new boiler. The committee had been informed by the janitor that the old boiler was very difficult to fire up and that a large amount of coal was required to bring up steam. In view of this fact the committee thought that the best and most economical thing to do would be to install a new boiler.

Brown & Dressel had supplied figures for a new boiler and for additional radiation in two of the rooms. The new boiler would cost about $2,000 and the other work about $80. On motion of Trustee Gill, the matter was referred to the building committee with power.

The same committee also reported that the gutters along the high school walk were in bad condition and that the roadway should be paved and repaired. The board of public works had offered to do the work at cost, and this was referred to the building committee with power, on motion of Trustee Gill.

The same committee reported that School No. 2 had been painted and now presented a fine appearance.

President Flemming appointed Trustees Kearney, Herbert and Mrs. Thompson, visiting committee.

Under the order of new business, the matter of the repairs to the roof of School No. 8 came up for attention. For some time this roof has given trouble and at present is leaking badly. The matter of repairing the roof was referred to the building committee with power. A paint will be supplied by the board and applied by the board's mechanic before cold weather.

Superintendent Michael reported that the registration of the part time school at present was 59 boys and 77 girls but that there were more and next week notices would be sent out to these students and an effort would be made to have them register at an early date and week after next the school would be organized.

An attempt will be made to organize the night school on September 18 so that the required number of weeks may be put in before the Easter vacation. Those who intend to attend night school should get in communication with Prof. Michael as soon as possible.

Supt. Michael submitted the following report:

To the Honorable Board of Education.

Gentlemen:

I respectfully submit the following report on registration in the city schools up to the date of the last principals' meeting in my office on Wednesday, September 6, 1922.

School No. 1	101
School No. 2	326
School No. 3	324
School No. 4	417
School No. 5	467
School No. 6	415
School No. 7	443
School No. 8	286
High school	936
	3735

On the second day of school last year the total registration was 3,557. This year's registration shows an increase of 178 pupils over last year.

All school buildings have been thoroughly cleaned during the summer vacation and many needed repairs have been done.

Everything was in readiness for the opening of school on Tuesday morning and all principals and teachers were in their places.

On motion of Trustee Kearney the board then adjourned.

ENGINE KILLS DOG

Animal Was Known in Many Places as a Trailer of Criminals.

Jack, prize bloodhound owned by Al Scott of Mitchell, S. D., known all over the state and neighboring states as a trailer of criminals, was killed by a switch engine on the St. Paul road tracks. Jack was twelve years old and was getting deaf, so he was unable to hear the train as it approached and was run down.

Mr. Scott had taken the dog all over South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska on calls to trail criminals. The last trip was made three weeks ago when he was called to Holland, Minn., to trail thieves who had broken into a store there.

Five years ago Mr. Scott was offered $1,000 for the dog by a Worthington (Minn.) man, but refused to sell.

Lad Saves Many Lives.

Lives of 75 passengers, including a score of Chicagoans, were saved when a farmer boy stopped the Northwestern's "Gold Special" passenger train, en route to Green Lake, as it roared toward a washed out bridge, near Fond du Lac, Wis.

Train Ran Into Moose.

Fireman Robert Kramer was killed and Engineer Goodman of a Canadian National ballast train was severely scalded recently near Horne Payne, when the train ran into a moose, overturning the locomotive.

JAPANESE SIKA DEER

"There are a good many of us in the zoo," said the Japanese Sika Deer to the Fallow Deer in the next yard.

"Antlers Are Most Important."

"We have quite big antlers, although we're not very large and in that way we're something like you are."

"Yes," said the Fallow Deer, "we have big antlers, too for our size. Well, antlers are most important in the Deer families. Most important, indeed."

"We're very strong," said the Sika Deer, "and We consider it is foolish to be sick."

"I don't suppose everyone or every creature can help being sick at times," said the Fallow Deer.

"In fact," the Fallow Deer continued, "I've heard that no one likes to be sick."

"Then it is very foolish of anyone ever to be sick," said the Sika Deer.

"Perhaps they cannot help it," said the Fallow Deer. "I've heard that they couldn't help it for they didn't like it at all."

"Well, if that is the case," said the Sika Deer, "I feel very sorry for them. I feel sorry for anyone who must be sick because it seems such a stupid waste of time.

"You see we are very strong. We're never sick. We don't care to waste our time that way.

"We don't bother about having lots of heat given to us in the winter when other animals are cold and are begging for all the heat they can get.

"We don't bother or fuss at all. We keep our good health and when the little baby members of the family come along they grow up to be strong too.

"Zoo life agrees with us and it agrees with the babies too, even with the little, little babies one might think would be delicate.

"There is the European Red Deer and he is a fine fellow. He is very much like the American Elk and is big and handsome and fine. He keeps to his own friends and his own family and we don't bother about each other.

"But I admire his looks for he is a big fine fellow.

"I don't think so much of the Malay Sambar deer for he likes to have his shed heated in the winter time. He spoils himself and his family and the zoo people spoil him too.'

"Of course," said the Fallow Deer, "there is a difference of opinion.

"He is a very pleasant fellow and everyone likes him, especially the keepers.

"They say that the little Malay Sambar Deer babies are strong and that they like the zoo almost as much as the Sika Deer babies.

"And he is far pleasanter than you are, I'm told. You are rather cross when the babies are arriving."

"Only because I want to make sure that they show at once they are going to be strong and sensible."

"Well," said the Fallow Deer, "I'm very glad to hear of your strength, but I don't believe creatures would like to have you around when they were ill.

"You wouldn't be very sympathetic I'm sure. You would think they'd made a great mistake in being ill at all."

"I would," said the Sika Deer. "I most certainly would. I don't care for the Maral Deer because he doesn't care whether nice strong little Maral Deer babies arrive at the zoo, and neither does Mrs Maral Deer seem to care.

"He Spoils Himself."

"They don't think much of zoo life I suppose. They are rather fine looking, and they have traveled a good deal. They came from Asia in the first place.

"But I think we're the best of all for we never bother the keeper with any time off for sickness."

"You're certainly healthy," said the Fallow Deer, "but you should have a little sympathy for creatures less fortunate."

"Haven't the time," said the Sika Deer, "haven't the time to bother about such a thing as sympathy. I have other things to think about. And the main thing is the pleasant thought of my own good health."

"Selfish," said the Fallow Deer to himself, "Yes, Sika is selfish!"

A COLLECTION OF GOOD CAKES

A good cake of whatever kind is a culinary achievement. If a sponge cake, it should be light, tender of texture and fine of grain; if a butter cake, the grain is finer, the texture more tender and the whole well baked. Baking is as important as the mixing; a failure in either will ruin the best of materials.

Crumb Cake.—Take two and one-half cupfuls of flour, add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of butter, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Add one teaspoonful each of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves; when well mixed take out a cupful of the flour mixture, and to the remainder add two well beaten eggs, one cupful of sour milk and one teaspoonful of soda. Beat well and put into a deep tin to bake. Sprinkle the reserved cupful over the top and bake in a moderate oven.

Nut Cake.—Take a pound of butter, soften by heat until creamy but not melted, add one and one-half pounds of light brown sugar, ten whole eggs, one pound each of flour and raisins, one-fourth of a pound of citron cut in strips, one pound of nut meats one grated nutmeg and one-half glass of orange juice. Mix and bake as usual.

Prune Cake.—Cream a tablespoonful of butter with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, add the grated rind of a lemon and one beaten egg, well mixed. Add one cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder and a quarter of a cupful of milk. Mix well, place the dough in a pan.

Kimmel Torte.—Put one-half pound each of dates and walnuts and a quarter of a pound of figs through the meat chopper, add three tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs and six eggs well beaten folded in last. Bake very slowly in layers and serve with whipped cream.

Maple Nougat Filling.—Boil two cupfuls of maple sugar and one half cupful of cream until waxy when dropped in water. Take at once from the heat, stir until cool, add a half cupful of chopped nuts and flavor to taste. This is delicious poured hot over ice cream.

Early Church Utensils.

When our Puritan forefathers first began to pass the plate for contributions in the meeting house it was not a plate they passed in most places, but a brass warming pan. Into this the coins jingled cheerfully until someone decided that it was too cheerful and a long-handled wire corn popper was substituted. The artistically carved and velvet-lined plates used in many churches today are a recent adaptation. In the earliest colonial days no collection was taken at all and the salary of the parson was paid in pork and pumpkins, potatoes and peas, flour, dried apples and beans, with occasional "donation parties" that provided further luxuries. When church activities began to extend beyond the immediate parish it was necessary to collect coins, so the warming pan and the corn popper were both used to gather them up quickly.

Young Ambition.

A brown-haired, bright-eyed newsboy, not more than nine years old, was in the midst of a heated argument with the news stand man when the Woman noticed them. The man couldn't understand just what the boy wanted, although he was explaining loudly in newsboy jargon that he was very deanite about the matter. Presently the boy took the man by the arm and led him to his choice among all the magazines that were hung about the news box for display. The Woman wondered what it would be—Diamond Dick or Racy Stories. Without hesitation the boy pointed to his desired magazine. The Woman blinked and looked again. The cover under his small, slightly soiled index finger said, "What to Sell and How to Sell It."—Chicago Journal.

ALL TEACHING VACANCIES FILLED

Superintendent Michael Reports That Staff Of School Instructors Has Been Materially Strengthened And From Now On All Must "Make Good."

With an increasec registration of pupils in the city totaling 178, of which 98 are at the high school, the teachers' committee of the Board of Education which has the matter of filling vacancies in the teaching corps has been kept busy for some time securing teachers to fill vacancies and at the meeting of the board Friday evening in the high school this committee submitted their report. Superintendent Michael reported that the committee had finally filled all vacancies and that instead of decreasing the strength of the teaching staff he was confident that by hard work the teaching staff had been materially strengthened. Superintendent Michael also said that now the city was paying good salaries and from now on teachers would have to make good or be replaced by some one who could "make good."

The following report of the teachers' committee was received and adopted:

To the Honorable, the Board of Education:

Gentlemen:

Your teachers' committee to whom was referred with power the matter of filling vacancies in our corps of teachers respectfully reports as follows:

Her place has been filled by the appointment of Miss Etta Anderson, a teacher of long experience, at a salary of $1,220. Miss Anderson is a graduate of Kingston Academy and the New Paltz Normal school and has an excellent record as a teacher in other cities.

Miss Clara Saulpaugh of School No. 6 declined reappointment to accept the principalship of a school elsewhere. In her place we have employed for the present Miss Kathleen Bongartz, a gratuate of our high school and the New Paltz Normal School at the rate of $1,000 per year.

In the high school Miss Edith W. Case declined reappointment but afterwards concluded to accept reappointment at the rate of $1,525 per year.

After the death of Miss Emma L. Turner, Miss Ruth Baragwanath who was a substitute for Miss Turner during her absence, was appointed at a salary of $1,245 as her successor in the history department. Miss Baragwanath made a splendid record during her work as Miss Turner's substitute.

Miss Alice Gorton, teacher of drawing at the high school, declined reappointment. Her place has been filled by the appointment of Miss Lillian A. Boyd at a salary of $1,450. Miss Boyd has had successful experience as a teacher of drawing in schools of other cities in this state.

In the department of mathematics Mr. Newton and Mr. MacIntyre declined reappointment. In the place of Mr. Newton we have engaged B. C. Van Ingen at a salary of $2,000. Mr. Van Ingen for the past several years has been superintendent and supervising principal of the schools at Frankfort, N. Y. He is a college graduate with a splendid record as a teacher.

Giant Power Under Perfect Control

Driving the New Series Paige 6-66 is an almost effortless operation. The woman who drives can handle this long 131 inch wheelbase with astonishing ease and safety.

There is not the slightest necessity for tugging at the wheel or struggling with gears. The special Timken axle and the new clutch have accomplished marvels for steering and gear changing. Indeed, both have become instinctive operations.

And, so far as control is concerned, the word takes on a new meaning after that mighty 70 horsepower reservoir has been tapped. It means just one thing—immediate and absolute responsiveness to the driver's will.

Surely these are the prime elements that you expect in a really fine motor car. Until recently they cost from four to seven thousand dollars. Now, in the Master of the Highway, they are yours—in generous abundance—for $2195.

D. C. INJUNCTION IS DISSOLVED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 9 - Efforts of striking railway shopmen to nullify the Chicago injunction by getting a restraining order from the federal court of the District of Columbia which would prevent government agents from enforcing the Chicago writ, failed temporarily today.

Justice Bailey of the district supreme court denied the temporary restraining order asked on Thursday by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, John P. Noonan, president.

In denying the temporary order asked, Justice Bailey announced that the court's action was "without prejudice" to the permanent injunction also asked by the striking shopmen, to be argued next week.

WOMAN HIT AT ASHOKAN DAM

Miss Kate Cavanaugh of Walton, N. Miss Cavanaugh was with a motor party and the car had been stopped while they alighted to view the big dam.

Miss Cavanaugh stepped out from behind the parked car directly in front of the Winchell car. Mr. Winchell stopped immediately and rushed her to the hospital where it was found she had sustained a broken ankle, a severe scalp wound on the right side of her head, contusions of the left elbow, lacerations of the right leg, and numerous contusions on the body. She was also suffering from a complete shock.

SMITH PERFORMED HERE BEFORE FATAL ACCIDENT

Henry A. Smith, who was killed at Rutland, Vt., last Thursday when a parachute with which he was making a drop from a balloon failed to open, is known in this city, he having been the aeronaut who made several unsuccessful attempts to get his balloon up while the California Show were exhibiting a short time ago across the Esopus creek under the auspices of Excelsior Hose Company. "Daredevil" Smith as he was known had made two successful ascensions and was making his third attempt when he fell. The parachute failed to open. He was 43 years old and had been in that business for about 10 years. Four hours earlier Lieut. Maynard, the "flying parson" and two companions were killed at the same place when their aeroplane failed to recover from a tail spin. Smith it is said was badly unnerved by the aeroplane accident.

CATSKILL RECORDER GROWS INTO A BIGGER PRESS

The Catskill Recorder is installing a Goss semi-rotary press which will provide for a ten page paper instead of the eight page issue of the past. The newsprint will be fed from continuous rolls instead of the sheets being fed by hand as formerly. An increased amount of advertising has forced this enterprising weekly for some time past to print a two page supplement with every issue at a great expenditure of time and labor. Heretofore it took three runs for four hours each to print the paper and supplement but with the new press the entire edition will be run off in an hour and cut and folded.

Lynch-Schick.

On Monday morning, September 4th, at 10 o'clock, the Sacred Heart Church at Eddyville was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Marie J. Schick of Eddyville, youngest daughter of Peter J. Schick, and Joseph A. Lynch of Wilbur, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lynch, were united in marriage by the Rev. Thomas Corbett at a nuptial Mass. To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march the bridal party proceeded up the aisle led by the bridesmaid, Miss Florence J. Schick, a sister of the bride. Then followed the bride, who was given away by her father. They were met at the altar by the groom, who was attended by his brother, J. Edwin Lynch, as best man. The bride was attired in a very pretty gown of white canton crepe with panels held in place by white rosebuds, and wore a picture hat of white canton crepe and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was attired in a gown of apricot georgette crepe, picture hat of black velvet and chantilly lace and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses. The wedding gifts were numerous and beautiful. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. Among the guests present were Sister Seraphica and Sister Philomenia, aunts of the bride; Mr and Mrs. Samuel Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fox, Peter J. Where Ghosts Are Institutions.

There is a conflict of opinion as to whether Virginia or Maryland produces the best and most reliable ghosts. Virginia claims pre-eminence in the output of Presidents, and Maryland claims she produces the best clams and oysters. These states do not dispute each other's claims in the matter of Presidents and clams, but they are sensitive on the subject of the superiority of their ghosts. In both states the ghost is an old and honored institution. No house can be old and respectable without a ghost, or a family of ghosts to haunt it, and haunted graveyards are numerous in both states. Notwithstanding the large colored population of the ghost-infested parts of the states, the ghosts are all white. They also vote at some elections, and all the ghosts that have come to the polls are Democrats. Of course, this is evidence that ghosts have a better understanding of what is right than many men who have not yet had the advantage of becoming ghosts.

"Mother Carey."

The telephone bell rang and a faithful reader said: "We all know that sailors call the stormy petrel Mother Carey's chicken, but who was Mother Carey? I've asked several shipmasters, but they're as ignorant as I am." Inasmuch as the ultramarine reporter was absent on assignment, it was necessary to consult the reference books, with this result: "The name Mother Carey is possibly corrupted from the Latin mater cara (dear mother), in allusion to the Virgin Mary." The explanation is plausible, at least. Sailors of old carried their religion with them, even when they embarked on a voyage of plunder, and it is reasonable to suppose they directed their prayers to the Virgin when the stormy petrel gave warning of heavy weather.—New York Evening Post.

His Wife Curbed Peter Stuyvesant.

Peter Stuyvesant, governor of the Dutch settlement of New Amsterdam, which is now New York, married Judith Bayard, a French Huguenot, the daughter of a minister of that calling. She seems to have been a very remarkable woman, both for her beauty and social accomplishments, and for her practical good sense and sound judgment. It was his wife's presence which gave social tone to the Stuyvesant administration, and it was she to whom her husband turned when harrassed by cares of state. He was notoriously irascible and quick-tempered, but his wife was able to deal with his humors, and maintain harmony in the household. She successfully educated her children in a land where good teachers were so scarce that education was a rarity.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

STARS ON MEMORIAL TREES

Living Monuments to 308 of Missouri's Hero Dead Line the Famous King's Highway.

Living memorials, sheltering those who come their way, always serving, 308 pleasant shade trees along King's highway in St. Louis stand as a monument to 308 Missouri lads who gave their lives during the World war.

In Memory of Hero Dead.

Each tree bears a gold star. A hero's name, the name of the unit and branch of service to which he was attached are engraved on each star.

The trees were planted on Arbor day by members of the American Legion. Many of the mothers of the men in whose memory the trees stand helped place the gold stars on the European sycamores, sweet gums and green oaks that line either side of the parkway.

RANKING WEST POINT CADET

Charles Barrett, Former "Buck" Private, Honor Man of Class of 1922 at Great Academy.

From a "buck private in the rear rank" in 1917 to the highest ranking cadet at West Point is the record of Charles J. Barrett, "honor man" of the 1922 class at the military academy.

Barrett went to France as a member of the 29th division. With 184 other "hand picked" soldiers he was chosen to take the examinations for West Point. He took highest honors.

At the academy, he was made regimental commander, editor of the school magazine and chairman of the board of governors. Despite his other activities, he has found time to do enough studying during his four years to land him at the head of his class.

MARSHAL FOCH HAD THE TIME

Famous French Fighter Aids Blind War Victim Seeking Wounded Soldiers' Institute.

The splendid spirit of Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France, who won the hearts of the American people when he toured this country as the guest of the American Legion last year is illustrated by a story from Paris.

A blind veteran tapped his way along the sidewalk. "Excuse me, am I near the wounded soldiers' institute?" he asked of a passing pedestrian. "I've only been there twice and I am not quite sure of the way."

"You are close to it now; let me take you," came the reply.

Arriving at the door of the institute, the guide said to the janitor: "Kindly take this man to the section for the blind."

"Take him yourself," growled the janitor. "Under the archway on the other side of the courtyard."

The civilian did take the veteran, but on the way out he addressed the janitor again.

"Could you not be a little more obliging to the blind?" he asked gently.

"There are too many and I haven't the time," was the surly response.

"It seems to me that it is your duty to help them," said the other. "I can find time—and I am Marshal Foch."

Plants 530 Memorial Trees.

Memorial trees for 530 veterans who gave their lives in the World war have been planted by the Washington (D. C.) post of the American Legion. As a part of the Memorial day exercises each year, wreaths made up to resemble the Legion insignia and American flags will be placed on each tree.

BOXER WHO SINGS AND READS

W. H. Littleton, an Ex-Gob, One of Many Legion Sluggers to Carry Away Honors.

A boxer who sings baritone and reads classical literature is about as rare as gin rickey at a church social. William Harrison, better known as "Happy" Littleton, southern middleweight champion boxer, has an unusually good baritone voice which he uses when the boys get together to have a little harmony. A boxer who peruses the classics might be expected to be a "tea hound," and it is rumored that Littleton has been known to balance the china cup on his knee.

But the fact that Littleton can sing, read and drink tea doesn't keep him from being a good boxer. He recently wrecked the knuckles on both his hands on Billy Shade's head when the two met in New Orleans. He won the decision in that match just as he had in others with Joe Chip, Battling Ortega, Joe Borrell and Jack Bloomfield.

Littleton, an ex-gob, is one of the many American Legion boxers who have carried away the laurels in bouts in every section of the country.

INTERESTED IN LEGION WORK

Maj. Gen. John Lejeune Accepts Invitation to Attend Annual Convention in New Orleans.

In accepting the invitation of the American Legion to attend the fourth annual convention of the legion in New Orleans, La., in October, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States marine corps, expressed his appreciation of the legion and his interest in its activities.

"Louisiana is my native state, and for that reason, as well as on account of my interest in the American Legion, it will be a privilege for me to be with you at the convention," General Lejeune said.

The military career of the marine corps leader embraces service in the Spanish-American and World wars. He came into greatest prominence when he commanded the Fourth brigade of marines of the Second division, which saw service at St. Mihiel, Mont Blanc ridge, the Meuse-Argonne and in the Rhine country.

Governor Signs Bonus Bill.

Governor Cox of Massachusetts has signed a bill which makes more than 400 additional World war veterans eligible for the $100 state bonus. The bill provides that any man who was a resident of the state within the year preceding his enlistment is eligible for the bonus, or if the man's parents were in the state a year prior to his enlistment, although he may have been in another state, he can collect.

About to Arrest Mme. Joffre.

While Marshal Joffre of France was being received at the Pennsylvania station in New York city by a group of American Legion officials and members of the mayor's reception committee, Mme. Joffre went upstairs to wait for the hero of the French people. While Mme. Joffre waited, one of New York's "finest" told her to "move on." He was about to take action because his order was ignored when a rescue party headed by General Bullard arrived and escorted Mme. Joffre to her waiting automobile.

Aids Are Needed.

There is urgent need at hospitals of the veterans' bureau for reconstruction aides in physiotherapy and occupational therapy in connection with the rehabilitation of disabled veterans of the World war, according to an announcement made by the United States civil service commission. Applicants for these positions are not required to report for written examinations, but are rated upon the subjects of education, training experience and physical ability. Information may be obtained from the U. S. civil service commission, Washington, D. C.

POULTRY

CORRECT TIME TO CAPONIZE

Impossible to Determine by Age as All Breeds Do Not Develop Alike—Watch Comb.

This is a question asked more frequently than any other by novices. It is a very important question, and the answer should be so simple that anyone could understand.

It is impossible to tell the best time for caponizing by the age, because all breeds do not develop alike; neither do birds of the same breed and hatch; some will be small of body with large comb and wattle developments, while others will show very little comb and be large and vigorous.

With any breed when the comb and wattles begin to grow you may know that the reproductive organs are growing correspondingly; when the little comb begins to redden you may know that the organs are receiving more blood for their very rapid growth; as they receive more blood the danger of an operation is greater, for the artery carrying the blood to the testicle is larger and in more danger of being ruptured.

Therefore, if you wish to operate at the perfect time watch the growth of the comb and wattles; when they are just "showing red" is the best and proper time; then there will be little danger to the life of the bird, less pain and no "setback" to speak of; while if you wait until the comb is bright red and the wattles hang considerably there will be more danger of death and more "slips."

EARLY HATCHED FOWLS BEST

Pullets Mature So That They Begin to Lay in Fall When Fresh Egg Supply Is Low.

Every fall hens take a vacation. In doing so they have very important business on hand. Typically feminine by nature, they insist upon having a new dress each fall. During their vacation they are engaged in shedding their old plumage and in growing new, and their energy is so occupied in this way that they lay few or no eggs. The process of molt or changing their plumage takes at least three months on the average, and it is due to this three months' vacation that the supply of fresh eggs is so scarce during the fall and winter. Early hatched pullets mature so that they begin to lay in the fall and early winter, and it is upon these early hatched pullets that the poultry keeper must depend for his supply of eggs during the time the old hens are molting and resting from their labors as egg producers. So if you want eggs when the old hens have quit laying, be sure that you hatch early and have a nice bunch of early hatched pullets coming along to supply the eggs at that time.

MALES FAVOR SCRATCH FEED

Better Plan to Have Medium Sized Fowls Than Too Large, Especially for Breeding.

Cockerels usually eat more scratch feed and less mash than the pullets do. Foods which develop a medium sized bird are better than to have the cockerels develop into too large roosters, especially those to be saved for breeding purposes.

POULTRY NOTES

As the chicks grow they need more room. It does not pay to let them crowd.

Beware of musty, mouldy, sour, or decayed food. It is sure to cause trouble.

Tough grass is of no value as a green food. Better sow some quick growing crop.

Feed hoppers greatly reduce the work. If they are kept filled, the chicks will never go hungry.

Two-year-old hens had better be sent to the market. They seldom pay for their feed if kept over the third season.

Grit and oyster shell should be included in the ration for both young and old. To neglect this would be poor economy.

COMMON COUNCIL ORDERED TO ACT

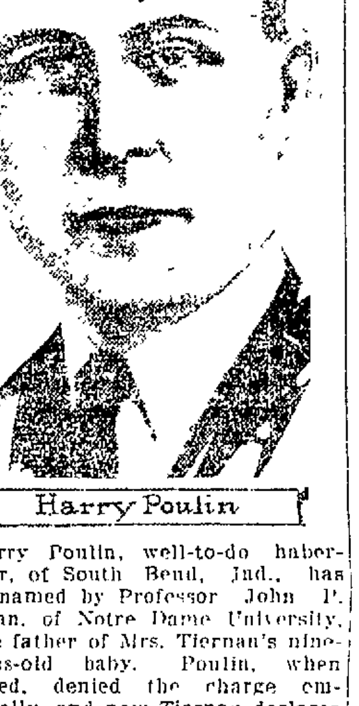
Mandamus Granted by Justice Hasbrouck Calls For Aldermen to Grant or Deny Terwilliger's Bus Line Petition.

Judge Hasbrouck on Friday handed down a memorandum granting the mandamus compelling the common council to act upon the petition of James A. Terwilliger for permission to operate a bus line over the city streets. The matter was argued before Judge Hasbrouck at special term held last Saturday and decision reserved. Frank W. Brooks appears for the plaintiff and Corporation Counsel Gill appeared for the city officials.

At a meeting of the common council held last month Mr. Terwilliger petitioned the common council for permission to operate a bus line over the city streets. This permission must be secured before he can go before the public service commission to secure the permission of that body to operate his proposed bus line between Rifton and Kingston. The common council then held a public hearing and again turned itself back into its official capacity as the common council and then upon motion of Alderman Martin of the 12th ward voted to lay the petition on the table. Ten of the aldermen voted to table the petition.

Attorneys Brooks then took steps to compel the common council to act upon the petition.

Under Judge Hasbrouck's decision the common council will now have to take the petition up and act upon it either granting or denying the permission.



Harry Poulin

Harry Poulin, well-to-do haberdasher, of South Bend, Ind., has been named by Professor John P. Tiernan, of Notre Dame University, as the father of Mrs. Tiernan's nine-months-old baby. Poulin, when arrested, denied the charge emphatically, and now Tiernan declares he will force a blood test to determine the baby's parentage.

Sea-Elephant Lazy Marine Animal.

The sea-elephant which abounds about the Island of South Georgia, located more than 1,000 miles east of Cape Horn, is one of the largest of marine animals, one of the laziest and most contentious. His main business while ashore is sleeping and fighting bitter battles with other sea-elephants. The animal is so named from his great bulk, which, in the bull, often attains a length of more than 20 feet and proportionate girth, and his long snout. His mode of progress on land is similar to that of an inch-worm, traveling entirely with the aid of his fore-clippers and humping his unwieldy body in what is said to be a very ludicrous manner. Despite his awkwardness, he can travel as fast as a man can walk.

BURGLARS ENTER CANTINE HOME

On Main Street, Saugerties—Silverware of Value is Taken—Job Bears Earmarks of Local Amateurs.

Thieves gained an entrance into the residence of Martin Cantine on Main street, Saugerties, early Friday morning. The burglars went through a front window which they jimmied.

Removing the top drawer of the sideboard they carried it out of the house on to the porch and removed the contents, which comprised thirty-five or forty pieces of valuable silverware. The remaining drawers of the sideboard which contained gold and silver of greater value were untouched.

Mrs. Cantine and her maid, who were alone in the house at the time, told the police that they closed a window in her room at about 2 o'clock in the morning and probably scared the robbers away. A flashlight used by the burglars was found. Police Captain Richter believes the robbery is the work of local talent and is taking finger prints on the drawer.

Belgian Negotiations Fail.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Sept. 9. The negotiations between Belgium and Germany over guarantees for German indemnity bonds have broken down, according to a Brussels despatch to L'Intransigeant today.

Many Minor Planets.

There continues the discovery of asteroids or minor planets, especially with the aid afforded by celestial photography. Among a vast multitude of stars, crowding a photographic plate one, perhaps, will be seen to have drawn a short thin line on the plate during its hours of continuous exposure. The astronomer knows at once that it is either an asteroid or a comet. Subsequent observations soon decide the point. Only the more interesting ones are afterward observed with attention, but once discovered they cannot be ignored, and the rapid growth of the flock becomes an embarrassment. Eros, which at times approaches the earth nearer than any other regular members of the solar system, except the moon, and asteroid No. 585, which at aphelion is more distant than Jupiter, as far as their orbits are concerned, remain the most interesting members of the entire group and are kept under constant observation whenever circumstances permit.—New York Herald.

Sun Still a Mystery.

The sun is a hotter place than the old orthodox hereafter. Its temperature is about 6,600 degrees centigrade. In breadth Old Sol is 865,000 miles across. Compared with him, our earth is like a kernel of popcorn in the center of a dinner plate. But although Old Sol regulates our life, growth and health from a distance of 92,930,000 miles, to be exact, science as yet knows little about him, observes Capper's Weekly. People realize in their subconscious minds that the sun is closely related to the mystery of life, which is one reason they are forever talking about the weather that is regulated by the sun as completely as a furnace regulates the temperature of a house in winter. But the big day star is almost as much of a mystery to us as he was to the ancients.

Anti-Fat Campaign in 1863.

The fattest man of all history is a title that has rested undisputed on Daniel Lambert, who died in his fortieth year at Stamford, Eng., in 1809. Mr. Lambert is said to have weighed 739 pounds, almost 200 pounds more than his closest competitor, Mr. Bright, who lived in Essex in the previous century. Bright, however, was scarcely a sylph, for his waistcoat is reputed to have enclosed seven persons of ordinary size, with room to spare. One of the first recorded anti-fat campaigns was that inaugurated by William Banting, who published a pamphlet on the subject in 1863. He urged as a cure greater moderation in the eating of sugar and starch, and gained so much fame that today "banting" is common vernacular for undertaking a restrictive diet.

He Would Like to Know.

An official of the village improvement society in New Jersey tells of a note received from a Japanese of an inquiring turn of mind. The subject of the inquiry is one that is familiar to most parts of the world, but no doubt the community of which it was made felt flattered by this evidence of its popularity. The note read: "The honorable society are asked in what way do they rid themselves of him the much troublesome mosquito? How do they approach him in his house among the reeds and marshes, so as to remove him effectually from the dangers that he does to people of good minds whose skins he must puncture? All this I would like so much to know."

Wisdom for Wives.

A wise old minister, before parting with a young couple he had joined in matrimony used to slip a card into his bride's hand on which was printed this advice: "When you marry him love him. After you marry him study him. If he is honest humor him. If he is generous appreciate him. When he is sad cheer him. When he is quarrelsome ignore him. If he is slothful spur him. If he is noble praise him. If he is confidential encourage him. If he is secretive trust him. If he is jealous cure him. If he favors society accompany him. When he deserves it kiss him. Let him think how well you understand him, but never let him know that you manage him."—Boston Transcript.

Alexander Ordered Army to Shave.

Apart from its ancient religious significance, shaving had its uses in military purposes. The beard formed a too convenient handle in the combats of olden days and Alexander the Great accordingly issued an army order to shave. It is curious to notice the reversions of fashion in the matter. The huge monuments of the Assyrians show the conquering armies full-bearded and only the slaves and captives shaven, but at a later period it was the Norman conquerors who were clean-shaven, and the bearded barbarians who were the conquered.

WESTON MAKES PROGRESS IN WALK TO NEW YORK

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Rochester, Sept. 9.—Steadily gaining on his schedule which has been arranged to get him from Buffalo to New York within thirty days, Edward Payson Weston, eighty-four year old pedestrian, arrived in Rochester at 4.50 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Weston arrived in this city over a day ahead of time, not being due here until Saturday night, and will rest most of today, except for a seven mile walk to Pittsford, where he will spend Sunday. He intended to arrive in the city at noon, but was somewhat fatigued by the heat. Despite the temperature, however, and his age, the veteran walker marched down Main street at a good pace, with head up and a smile on his face.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

The most thrilling and funniest of all the Reid racing romances is said to be "Across the Continent" starring Wallace Reid, Theodore Roberts and Mary MacLaren, showing at Keeney's for the last times tonight. Monday and Tuesday Thomas Meighan in "Our Leading Citizen," written by George Ade, a swift-moving story of real American life, with clean fun and romance. Lois Wilson is his leading lady.

Hoot Gibson in all his western glory is programmed at the Auditorium tonight and lovers of the great outdoors will find a story of action and thrills seldom shown in one picture, a Century comedy is also featured. Monday will be double feature day showing Irene Castle in "Vengeance Is Mine," also Norma Talmadge in "Her Only Way."

"Woman's Greatest Sin" played to a large and satisfied audience at the Opera House last night. This stage play with its lesson in wholesome home life, will be seen again tonight.

Mabel Normand, as the great American public know her, is a charming, winsome and often impish artiste who seems to be so thoroughly enjoying herself in her impersonations that it is really not to be wondered at that she makes an irresistible appeal to her audiences. In "Oh, Mabel, Behave," she has a most suitable vehicle in which to express her versatility. "Oh, Mabel Behave," will be shown at the Orpheum today with the usual vaudeville acts Monday vaudeville again changes, together with a change of photoplay.

Doesn't Happen Every Day.

After paying my check at the desk where I had dined I stopped to weigh myself on the scales near the door, in plain sight and hearing of the roomful of diners.

As I stepped upon the platform and dropped my penny in the slot a number of youngsters jumped off a nearby bench and gathered around me. When the pointer swung around to 190 they clapped their hands and squealed with excitement.

One of them called to a friend who had not joined the little party around the scales: "O, come and look! She makes it go clear around!"—Chicago Tribune.

On Time

Ben Franklin wrote in Poor Richard's Almanac, "He who rises late must trot all day and scarce overtake his business by night."

In those days they didn't make as many dates with the clock as we do, nor have Westclox to ring them up.

If the saying was true then no wonder we sell so many Westclox now.

TAGGING THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

By treating the venerable Walter Johnson in a rough and unseemly manner, the Yanks clawed their way back to the top of the American League, Carl Mays being right enough to hold the Senators in check.

The Browns had not expected to lose yesterday as Shocker was sent to the mound but it was an off day with the pitching ace and the Tigers clubbed their way to victory.

The Phoolish Phils made the Giants look even more foolish. Nehf lacked a lot of being able to do any fooling himself.

Heavy hitting enabled the White Sox to take another from Cleveland.

The Pirates lost a chance to gain on the faltering Giants when they allowed the Cubs to come from behind and slug out a victory.

The Red Sox made four hits produce two runs—just enough to trim the Athletics.

BOY SCOUTS

HAS MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT

Treasure Island, summer camp of the Philadelphia scouts, though reminiscent in name of pirate boldness and clanking defiance, is a miniature city with model government and law-upholding citizens. A new mayor is elected every Saturday night and names his cabinet upon his inauguration. Besides the mayor, there are in this well-organized community a city clerk, a camp physician, head of the department of streets and highways, a department of public health, bureaus of supplies, of city transit, of recreation, wharves, docks and ferries, city property, lighting, public welfare, harbor police, city police, fire department, chief of police, a commissary department and a city treasurer. The work of regulating the various activities and duties of the camp is carried out by boy officials. Each troop has its own camp. Twice a week there is a general central camp fire and once a week in the woods a council ring.

In the first-aid department the boys under the supervision of two camp doctors, are trained to handle all first-aid cases.

There is never a minute of idleness at camp. Every moment is planned and crowded with work and play. "a characteristic combination in boy scout education."

The Philadelphia Public Ledger in commenting on the camp says:

"Hundreds of boy scouts of the Philadelphia district will find during the next few months at this ideal camping site on the Delaware river a treasure more enduring, more delightful and more precious than all of the loot of pirates—a treasure of health, happiness and the joy of just being alive."

"AT YOUR SERVICE!"

A "good turn" includes giving information to pedestrians, rendering first aid to injured, restoring lost children to their parents, warning autoists of dangerous passings, picking up puncture-provoking articles from the roads, etc.

GOOD TURN APPRECIATED

Scout Executive Dyer T. Jones of South Orange, N. J., is in receipt of the following letter of appreciation of a good turn: "During the storm Sunday, June 11, a large hickory tree on my premises was blown down by the wind, breaking two other trees in its fall and entirely blocking the sidewalk and most of the roadway in front of my home. In response to a call by the village authorities, Troop No. 11, boy scouts came to my home and inside of 30 minutes, they chopped the tree in five or six lengths, lopped off the branches and stored all of the debris on the lawn, entirely out of the way of traffic of all kinds. As this tree was between 60 and 70 feet high and measured about 18 inches in diameter it seems to me that the accomplishment of this work in such a speedy manner is a meritorious achievement and worthy of being called to your attention. I certainly appreciate the work of Troop 11 under their leader, Mr. Morrison, and through you I wish to express my hearty thanks for their sincerely earnest work in time of emergency.—John B. Sandford."

GIVE TOURISTS INFORMATION

"Things You Ought to Know About Racine, the Belle City of the Lakes—Distributed by Courtesy of the Boy Scouts"—so reads the title page of a folder which is being handed all autoists inquiring at the two information booths recently erected by the Racine (Mich.) Association of Commerce and taken charge of by boy scouts. The circular includes a map of routes to neighboring cities and to local points of interest.

Brigadier-General Harry H. Bandholtz is reported to be slated to succeed Major-General Leonard Wood, retired, when the latter leaves his post as Governor-General of the Philippines to become head of the University of Pennsylvania. General Bandholtz is a close personal friend of Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate. He was Inspector of the Constabulary in Quezon's province when Quezon was Provincial Governor.

Criqui Fights Tonight.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Sept. 9.—Even money bets were laid today on the outcome of the fight tonight between Criqui, featherweight champion of Europe, and Wyns of Belgium, the challenger Wyns will attempt to regain the title he lost to Criqui on July 7, when the referee's decision was protested and it was necessary for the Boxing Union to make a ruling on the outcome.
